

Alive In Christ

HELLO

This week, we have the blessing of hearing Melinda Britt share her thoughts on Roman 6. Most of these are her questions and thoughts for you to share as a group.

It's important to think from time to time about what makes you feel alive and encouraged. The world can beat you down with very little effort. Feelings of helplessness in your personal and spiritual life can convince you that you have no real power over who you are and what you can do about it. Paul has a different take on the trajectory of life and your contribution to it.

When is a time or circumstance where you have felt like things were happening out of your control?

GROW

Read Romans 6

When have you witnessed a death that resulted in new life (or a life that was dead becoming a new life)?

Share a time when you have had the death of an idea give rise to a new way of thinking.

When have you witnessed a more generous way of love be birthed where an old hate has faded away?

How would you describe the tension and heartache of fighting the spiritual battle of good and evil?

What does it look like to "live under the freedom of God's grace"? [vs. 14]

P R A Y

Try something different this week. Have each person in the group share one thing that feels out of control. Have someone focus the prayer on freedom... in Christ of course.
